Essay.

Changing the careers several times during the life is common now. A lot of people do it, and everyday their number is rises. So, what are the reasons?

The first and the most logical reason is interest. Nowadays people want to try as much as they possibly can. Sometimes there are very different things: maths, sport, philosophy, languages. Studying and working are wonderful. So, do not be afraid to try something that is new for you - maybe you will get very successful.

An another reason is just a fare to lose any job at all. In fact, now working is not stable. In the 21st century many professions are disappearing. They are becoming changed by machines. The easiest example is a job of cashier: there are no them in many shops. And it is not the only profession that changed. I think, most of them have the same future. That is the second answer for a question "Why do people change careers?" and the most common of changing careers.

So, after telling all these facts I can answer to a question "Is it a positive development?". Yes.
